1.1 Remote Control key guide

2. PROGRAMMING CONTROL FOR TV DEVICES

You can program the remote to control your TV using the following steps:

2.1 - Code Input Programming

1) Turn on the TV you want to program to the remote control. Hold the remote in a straight line in front of your TV at a distance less than 1 meter.

2) Press and hold the TV device mode button  and the power button  on the remote control until the red light indicator lights up constantly.

3) Enter the 4 digit code that you can find in the TV code list (Appendix B) next to the brand name of your TV.

4) The TV device mode button  will blink twice and then turn off. Press the power button  to check if the TV has turned off or not. If the TV remains on, please follow the above steps 2-4 once more and enter another 4 digit code (if available) of your brand of TV until you find the appropriate code that will make the TV able to be turned off.

NOTE:

* When a manufacturer has more than one code, you must note down the codes and try them one by one. Find out which of the codes controls your TV and uses the most functions. Use that particular code.

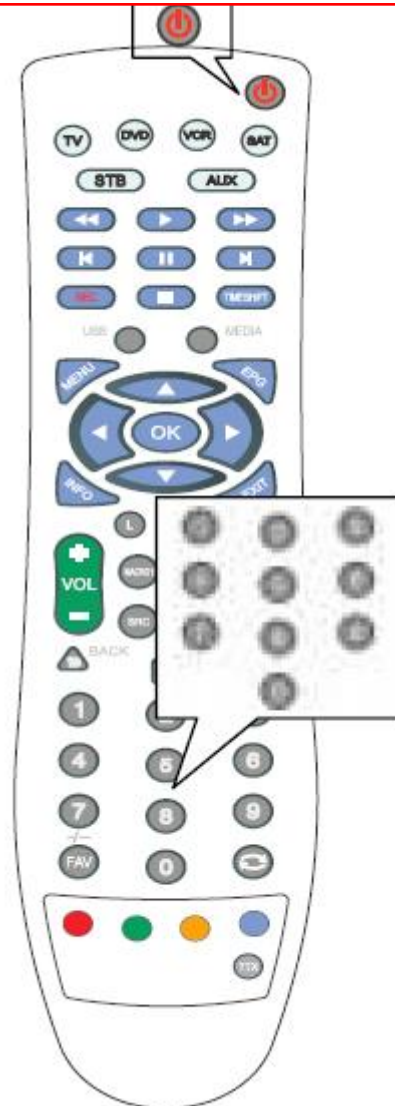

* If no key is pressed within 30 seconds from the moment the red light of the TV device mode button  turns on, or another key other than a number has been pressed, the TV device mode button  will turn off and the programming process will be cancelled.

Actions to verify correct programming

Once you have programmed the remote with the correct code, check to see which of the buttons are working according to the functions of your TV.

Corrective Actions

If any of the buttons do not work properly, you can program those buttons individually by using the Learning Function Process described on page 6.

- 3) Press the Channel Up button  and Channel Down button  one step at a time until your TV turns off. Every time you press the  or  buttons the TV device mode button  will blink once.
- 4) When the TV turns off it means that the remote has found the correct code for your TV.
- 5) Press the OK button  to store the code. The TV device mode button  light will turn off.

NOTE:

Actions to verify correct programming

Once you have stored the correct code in the remote, check to see which of the buttons are working according to the functions of your TV.

Corrective Actions

If any of the buttons do not work properly, you can program those buttons individually by using the Learning Function Process described on page 6.

3. LEARN FUNCTION OPERATION GUIDE

The Learn Function button on the remote control allows you to program the keys one by one to act like the original remote control that came with your device. As an example, below is a method of programming a STB using the learn function following the steps below:

- 1) Press the STB button  once.
- 2) Press the learn button  for 3 seconds until the STB button  turns red.
- 3) Press on the key that you want to program and learn. The red indication light of the STB button will be red constantly and stop blinking.
- 4) Bring the original remote opposite to the universal remote and keep at a distance of 3 to 5 cm. Line the 2 remotes up in such a way so that the infrared windows on the top of each remote are facing each other.
- 5) To continue, press on the original remote the button that you want the STB to learn. Keep it pressed until the red indication light on the STB button  starts blinking again, ensuring the remotes are still lined up. Then you can release the button and its function will be learned. Follow steps 4 and 6 again and again for each of the buttons you wish to learn on the remote.

NOTE:

- If no key is pressed within 30 seconds, the red light indicator will blink twice and turn off.
- During the learn process, all buttons can be programmed except for LEARN, OK, MACRO, ALL OFF and Device Mode keys.

6) If you have finished learning all the buttons you want and you need to store all the learned key data, press the learn button . The red light indicator on the STB button  will turn off.

NOTE:

If, after the completion of the learn process you reprogram this particular device by putting in a different device code, all stored data will be reset and replaced with new data.

Actions to verify correct programming

Once you have programmed the remote using the learning function, check to see if all of the buttons are working in accordance with your programming by trying to control the STB device.

Corrective Actions

If any of the buttons do not work properly, you can program those buttons individually by using the same process described above.

NOTE: Learn function for other devices

* If you want to use the learning function for other devices, use the above guide and instead of using the STB mode button , choose another device button     and continue with the same procedure.

* If you want to control the volume of your TV by using the Volume button  on the Universal Remote, use the learn method and program the volume button  using the original remote that came with your TV to enable this function. By doing this, you will be able to control the sound of your TV without having to switch from another device to TV mode.
